Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, there is a missing between "arrangement" at line 4 and "a control member" at line 5. A comma is suggested. There are insufficient antecedent bases for "the control circuit (3)" recited at lines 6-7, "the heating conductor arrangement (2.1)" at line 12 in the claim. The recitation of "a feed branch (5)" at line 20 renders the claim indefinite because it is unclear whether this feed branch was the same as the "coupling branch (5)" recited earlier at line 10. Clarification is needed. Claim 1 is generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. It appears to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

It is noted that since applicants intended to include reference numbers in the parenthesis for each citation. Such reference numbers must be kept in consistency to avoid confusion. For example: the "(2.1)" has been used for both "the heating conductor arrangement" and "a digital circuit arrangement".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2, 4, 5, 12-14, and 16 as being understood are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Keane (US 6,222,162) cited by the Applicants. Keane shows a heating device (Figure 3) comprising an electrical heating conductor arrangement 10 (shown in Figure 1) integrated into a flexible heating element or heating blanket (18) which is connected to a supply voltage (20) as shown in Figure 2, a control member (42) for controlling heating current to the heating blanket, a triggering circuit (36) with a control loop connected to the control member (42) for varying the heating current and regulating the heating temperature of the blanket (18), wherein the triggering circuit (as shown in Figure 2) is coupled to a heating circuit including the blanket (18) via a coupling branch (32) for picking up a measured electrical value of the temperature of the heating circuit, the control loop includes a digitizing stage of a digital circuit arrangement (34) or MOC so that the control member (42) can regulate a set temperature of the heating blanket (18) on a basis of data developed by the digitizing stage with the measured electrical value can be conducted indirectly to the digitizing stage via a feed branch (32,24,25,15,22,54) which is arranged upstream of the digitizing stage of the digital circuit (34) for developing a digital actual value via an analog time function element including resistor (50) and capacitor (54), and a voltage divider (BRN,50,52) for picking up the measured value, the capacitor (54) is connected to the voltage supply by a rectifier (22), and a switching member.

Claims 3, 6-11, 15, and 17-18 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

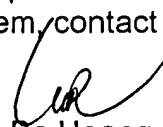

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record does not suggest the use of a digitizing stage has the time measuring element for developing the actual digital value until one of a preset and a presettable charge voltage of a capacitor is reached in which the triggering of the control member takes place as a function of the deviation of the actual time value from The rated time value in a manner recited in claim 3, or such non triggered state as recited in claim 6, a switching member for temporarily triggered via the digital circuit arrangement as recited in claim 15 or 17.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure: Cross et al (US 4,554,439), Tamura et al (US 4,523,084), and Ueda et al (US 4,485,296).
